COMPANY PROFILE - an overview

Services provided

Alchester BUSINESS SYSTEMS, formed in May 1987, consults on, and provides solutions for small to medium businesses requiring accounting or commercial applications, and to engineering firms requiring CAD, Project Management, and Data Acquisition type systems. Technical consulting services are provided to organisations requiring specifications of application tools and hardware.

The Principals of Alchester and its Associates have significant product marketing and engineering experience which also provides the base for its consulting services that are extensively used by the Insurance Industry in Australia in the handling of disaster recovery and technical assessment roles.

Interfacing networking and front end workstation systems with legacy systems, factory equipment, production control systems or just plain administrative procedures, are a specialty area for customers in the manufacturing and industrial arena.

Key application areas:

- Firewall, data protection, network security and data backup/recovery facilities
- AutoCAD and related document storage, indexing, scanning and plotting applications,
- Office presentation, mobile theatre systems
- Printing and Publishing (eg: Newspaper production systems)
- Accounting and Financial management systems (Small/Medium Business and Public Practice Systems)
- Service Industry systems (engineering and maintenance related)
- Internet, email, website development, commercial website transaction processing

Background and experience

The company's founder has been associated with the computer industry since 1974 with experience in systems integration, applications development and engineering servicing. Formerly taking on a key role in the ownership of third party maintenance and support entities, Alchester established a close business relationship with business/engineering oriented customers through its support and servicing operations.

As customers migrated to Intel and RISC based networking solutions with Novell, Unix, or Microsoft based software, Alchester established a project management group with a number of key application vendors to provide systems integration and installation services to this customer base.
